

72-004 Waring's Grove

900 Brightseat Road

Landover

Built in late eighteenth century, and remodeled circa 1860, Waring's Grove incorporates a one-and-one-half-story frame house with Gothic Revival detail on porch and dormers. The earliest section was built in the late eighteenth century by Zachariah Berry; it was remodeled to reflect the then-popular Gothic cottage style by his grandson. The house is named for a tract patented to Thomas Waring in 1756. The house is an interesting example of an early dwelling form with later Victorian trim. For a similar example, see Kingston in Upper Marlboro (Historic Site 79-019-13).
