

76A-004 St. Barnabas Episcopal Church and Cemetery

5203 St. Barnabas Road

Oxon Hill

Built in 1851, St. Barnabas is a gable-roof brick church with a three-story entry tower, mitre-arched stained glass windows, and corbelled brick cornice. A large cemetery adjoins the church. St. Barnabas was built as a mission chapel for St. John's Episcopal Church at Broad Creek, to replace the original 1830 mission chapel on this site. Although it has undergone some twentieth-century alterations, St. Barnabas is significant for its mid-nineteenth century vernacular church architecture and its long association with St. John's, Broad Creek.
