Built in the eighteenth century and remodeled in the 1870s, Admirathoria is a two-and-one-half-story late- Georgian brick plantation house; its walls are laid in Flemish bond, and the stairhall takes up one of the four large spaces of the square floor plan. It was built for the Rozier family, and remained the family home for nearly a century. (The house replaced an earlier frame and brick house called Lower Notley Hall, named for Notley Rozier. The original tract of land was called Admirathoria.) In the 1870s, the original hip roof was replaced with the present mansard roof. Admirathoria is a significant Georgian structure, and a unique example of its type in Prince George's County.
