Built in the 1830s and later, St. James Hill is a three-part house. The central block is a two-and-one-half-story side-gabled brick structure. The principal facade is laid in Flemish bond and fronted by a two-story pedimented portico. It is attached at right angles to an early one-and-one-half-story gable-roof frame building. The main block was built in the 1830s as the home of Dr. Benedict J. Semmes, who served in the U.S. Congress. In the twentieth century the portico was added, and a balancing wing constructed at left.
