

86B-006 Turner House

15905 Tanyard Road

Nottingham

Built in the late eighteenth century, the Turner House is a small, one-and-one-half-story side-gabled tenant dwelling. It has a two-room plan with center chimney and was built on property owned by Martha Roundell. It was the residence during the early nineteenth century of her farm overseer, Jesse Turner. This modest structure is the only known surviving example of an eighteenth-century center-chimney dwelling in Prince George's County. Martha Roundell is buried in a tomb located a short distance from the house.