Built in 1920, St. Mary's Episcopal Church is a front-gabled church of frame construction covered with stucco; it has perpendicular transept arms and a three-story corner tower. It was built to replace the first church on the site (1848), which had been built as a mission chapel for the southernmost congregants of St. Paul's Church in Baden. It still serves as the chapel of St. Paul's and is an important landmark in the community of Woodville/Aquasco. It is a handsome example of Tudor-inspired church architecture and is the only historic example of its type in Prince George's County.
