

An aerial photograph of the University of Maryland campus. The image shows a large, modern stadium with a green field and a large seating bowl, surrounded by various academic and administrative buildings. A golf course is visible on the left side of the image. The campus is situated on a hillside, with a road labeled 'ROUTE 193' running through the center. The surrounding area includes residential neighborhoods and other campus facilities. The image is oriented vertically, with the stadium at the bottom and the golf course at the top.
