

An aerial photograph of a suburban area with various flood zones highlighted in green. The map shows a complex network of roads, including major highways like I-95 and I-495, and local streets such as Capital Beltway, John Hanson Highway, and Martin Luther King Jr. Highway. Water bodies, including a creek and several ponds, are shown in blue. The green flood zones are distributed across the landscape, particularly along the water bodies and in some residential areas. The map also shows a mix of residential housing, commercial buildings, and industrial areas.
